

Code of Ethics

The Massachusetts Organization of Educational Collaboratives (MOEC) and its members are committed to an ethical code of behavior that requires professional conduct and behavior that enhances and promotes the educational profession in the Commonwealth. The educational collaborative leader supports the principle of due process and protects the civil and human rights of all individuals and makes the education and well being of all students the fundamental value in his/her decision-making. Our members are accountable and strive to be exemplars of professional leadership for and among our staff and those school districts who choose to be our members. The educational collaborative leader provides equal educational access for his/her students, demonstrates fiscal integrity and stewardship to his/her members, is dedicated to a positive and supportive relationship with his/her board of directors and fosters a cooperative relationship between and among his/her member school districts.
